Review Articles in the August issue of The FASEB Journal

Serial Review

The Extracellular Matrix 2: The role of the extracellular matrix molecules and their receptors in the nervous system. K. A. Venstrom and L. F. Reichardt

State-of-the-Art Reviews

Pericyte physiology. D. Shepro and N. M. L. Morel

Intracellular parasitism of Legionella and signaling in eukaryotic cells. Y. F. Belyji

Organization, regulation, and application of the lux genes. E. A. Meighen and S. Monetta

Interactions between SV large tumor antigen and the growth suppressor proteins pRB and p53. J. W. Ludlow

Activation of neutrophil leukocytes: chemoattractant receptors and respiratory burst. M. Beggio, F. Bouley, J. A. Badwey, and J. T. Cumette

Integral membrane heparan sulfate proteoglycans. G. David

Regulation of the long-chain carotidine synthases. P. S. Brady, R. R. Ramsay, and L. J. Brady

COVER: Transverse section of normal human colonic crypts stained with an antibody against the retinoblastoma gene protein (RB) showing positivity (orange-brown stain product) in nuclei of transitional zone epithelial cells. Stromal cell nuclei are negative (hematoxylin counterstain; originally X400). See all et al., pages 931-937.

Designed to report on rapidly changing developments in biological sciences, The FASEB Journal publishes brief, definitive, original research communications and state-of-the-art reviews, as well as editorials, letters, a book list, new items, calendar, public affairs, and employment opportunities. The views expressed in articles are those of the authors and not necessarily those of the Federation. All manuscripts are subject to review and approval by the Editors before publication.
